

Personalising CPD: leading CPD into the future.

Thursday 19 June 2008, Holiday Inn Bloomsbury, London

Aims of the day:

- To share the outcomes of the Personalising CPD project
- To share knowledge of the impact of national policy such as the revised professional standards and new performance management requirements
- To debate questions and issues of leading professional learning
- To understand the national picture of CPD policy and practice
- To support your role as leader of professional learning through practical examples of successful strategies from others' experiences
- To refresh understandings of effective strategic CPD practice based on research

Programme

10.00 Registration and refreshments

10.30 Welcome

Kathy Baker, Acting Head of Policy Development GTC

Introduction

The Personalising CPD project

Jane Hough, Facilitator, Connect network, GTC

10.50 What will CPD look like in the future? Four perspectives

- Liz Francis, Director, Teacher Programmes, TDA
- Dylan Wiliam, Acting Director, Institute of Education, University of London

11:50 Break

- Philippa Cordingley, Chief Executive, Centre for the Use of Research and Evidence in Education
- Lesley Saunders, Senior Policy Adviser for Research, GTC

13.30 Lunch

14:30 Leading professional learning into the future

Ronnie Woods, Director, Enquire

14.50 What are the issues in successfully 'Personalising CPD'?

An opportunity to share practice through facilitated Learning Conversations

15.30 Closing address and next steps

15:45 End of event and refreshments